

A close-up photograph of a doll's face. The doll has long, straight, yellow hair. On the left side of her face, there is a large, stylized eye with a pink and blue checkered iris and a pink eyelid. Below this eye is a pink lollipop. On the right side of her face, there is a circular patch featuring a cartoon rabbit's face with a bow and ears. The doll has a small, closed mouth and pink lips. She is wearing a green and white polka-dot bow tie. The background is a soft, out-of-focus gradient of green, yellow, and blue.

Welcome to The Doll Scene, where you get exclusive access to some of the best Blythe, Pullip, BJD (ball-jointed dolls), Monster High, Susie Sad Eyes, and Dal dolls customizers.

Funny, sweet, libidinous, adorable, and sometimes sinister, these dolls have truly become objects of desire and pop culture icons of this century.

The artists featured in this amazing book give each doll a unique personality by exchanging body parts, sculpting faces, changing “eye chips” and hair colors, adding endless eyelashes, applying makeup, and carefully tailoring all its clothing and accessories. Also, we will meet other artists who have designed their own dolls—called OOAK (one-of-a-kind) and used for art dolls made of various materials, such as polymer clay and resin—creating original molds.

Custom-designed dolls are increasingly valued by fans and collectors, and most of these pieces of art are available in several online stores and auctions on eBay.

*Welcome to
The Doll Scene!

Nanuka

Naira is Nanuka, an artist and interior designer from Bilbao, Spain. Her colorful world is the result of years of investigation, working hard by paying special attention to those little details that make an artist become an artist. Nanuka incorporates electronic and mechanical devices into her creations to achieve movement and realness to her lovely dolls. Being an interior designer allows her to create beautiful small-scale environments for her characters. Although she is inspired by music and movies, her favorite subject is the amusing world of circus. Nanuka's sole intention is to make us dream and smile—and she really succeeds!

Julien Martinez

Julien Martinez is a contemporary artist living in Paris. Martinez is very well known and admired in the doll scene for his creepy and gothic style. Martinez uses a wide range of dolls to create his unique and dark world: Blythe, Pullip, Dal, Toffee, Reborn, BJD, vinyl, vintage, and porcelain dolls. He presents his stunning creations each year in the main doll collectors, events and exhibitions worldwide. To create his creepy and dark universe, Martinez is inspired by literature, cinema, old fairy tales, and costume design history.

Cookie Dolls

Rebeca Cano lives in Toledo, Spain, which is near Madrid. Cano works as an archaeologist and restorer, and she is the founder of Cookie Dolls. Her inspiration comes from religion, dreams, and poetry. Cano loves to tell stories with each creation, flavored with a hint of melancholy, in which each doll is the star. Through her conscientiously taken photographs, Cookie Dolls bring us to a magical place where we can see sumptuous dioramas and detailed, beautiful costumes, designed and sewed specially for each doll, giving them life, personality, and soul. Cookie Dolls are absolute objects of desire, no doubt about it.

Clockwork Angel

Clockwork Angel, also known as Silvee van Toor, is an artist from The Netherlands with a deep love for the world of fantasy and fairy tales. When Silvee discovered ball-jointed dolls she felt as though all the pieces of the puzzle fell into place. These kind of dolls require everything she loves to do: work with tools and clays to reshape them; paint their faces; design and sew all outfits; do their overall styling, and surf the Internet searching for the perfect eyes, shoes, and wigs. Silvee also works with other kinds of dolls, such as Monster High and Blythe. Clockwork Angel's characters are inspired by Lolita and pin-up style aesthetics.

Enchanted Doll

Marina Bychkova is the Russian-Canadian artist founder of Enchanted Doll, an exquisite porcelain doll luxury brand. Bychkova's dolls are small articulated works of art, hand-sculpted, hand-painted, tastefully nude or adorned with opulent embroidered dresses full of metals and gemstones, and accompanied by strange found objects. There is always a little hint of Russia in every doll she makes, and her inspiration comes from folk and popular traditions from cultures and ethnicities such as China and the Middle East.

Juan Albuerne

Juan Albuerne is a very well-known painter and caricaturist based in Gijon, Spain. Being a doll collector and a movie lover, Albuerne naturally started customizing original factory dolls to create his particular portraits of actors and singers. His work with the Pullip doll has allowed him to create stunning 3-D caricatures of celebrities, which are fused in perfect harmony with his work as an illustrator. His spectacular dolls have been published in a wide variety of magazines and books and exhibited in art galleries.

Erregiro

Rafael Rodriguez Girona is Erregiro, a profesional photographer, passionate painter, and makeup artist who lives and works in Seville, Spain. Erregiro designs and sculpts, paints, does hair and makeup, and takes all the photographs of every custom-doll he creates, leading us on a journey through his wonderful and unique universe. Erregiro's work is increasingly being recognized in the doll collectors scene, and that's why each year he is invited to take part in events and exhibitions. In addition to books, his work has been published in Internet blogs, and print and digital magazines worldwide.

Zombuki

Brigitte Coover lives in Florida and is the founder of Zombuki, a beautiful series of exclusive customized dolls. Zombuki comes from the fusion of the words zombie and kabuki, a concrete style of traditional Japanese theater characterized by dramatic and elaborate makeup on the actors. Her work has been featured in publications and art galleries, including the Japanese American National Museum and The Valley of the Dolls, in Los Angeles. Coover also designs jewelry and fanzines.

Forgotten Hearts

Aidamaris Roman is a self-taught artist from Puerto Rico.

Roman learned to create her own porcelain dolls watching YouTube tutorials and reading specialized books. That is how the amazing Forgotten Hearts dolls were born a decade ago. In addition to making her dolls entirely by hand, Roman also likes to sculpt and paint fairies, mermaids, and other fantastic creatures.

Nerea Pozo

Nerea Pozo, from Bilbao, Spain, began her artistic career by studying fine arts at the Basque Country's Facultad de Bellas Artes. Pozo was one of the first Spanish custom-doll artists, and she is also known for her cute Blythe dolls paintings and her miniature furniture sets. She is inspired by Manga comics, Japanese culture, and popular culture characters such as Alice in Wonderland and Pippi Longstocking. Pozo is very concerned about the importance of the smallest details, taking care on the ornaments, hairstyles, makeup, attitudes and on the background dioramas that she makes and in which the dolls stand.

Sally's Song Dolls

Lorena Sánchez is a talented makeup artist, a special effects professional based in Barcelona, Spain, and the founder of Sally's Song Dolls. To create her lovely and creepy characters, Sánchez is mainly inspired by horror movies and classic children's stories, mixing darkness with sweetness in perfect harmony. With each custom-doll, Sánchez tells us fantastic stories in which creatures aren't as evil and sinister as they seem.

IrrealDoll

*IrrealDoll, an original brand dedicated to the creation of collectible dolls, was founded in 2011 by Laura Garijo, a Spanish artist and illustrator from Seville. The Engendritos—little monsters—are currently IrrealDoll's most popular characters. These ball-jointed dolls, original molds, have been carefully designed and hand-sculpted by Garijo herself. IrrealDoll dolls are manufactured in Asia and include various customization options and endless finishings. Garijo has also published her own graphic book titled Synkope and has worked as an illustrator for publications worldwide.*

Shaiel

Katarzyna “Shaiel” Mroczek lives in Poland. She studied advertising in Warsaw and works as a creative photographer and photo editor for photographic agencies, magazines, and newspapers. Ball-jointed dolls have been her passion for life, and she loves to paint, customize, and photograph them. Shaiel started taking commissions because she wanted to share her passion with others, turning customer’s ideas into real dolls. Shaiel loves working with different models of dolls, trying to bring different aesthetics to each of her beautiful characters.

Recently, Shaiel has ventured to work with Monster High and Blythe dolls.

Juan Jacobo Vaz

Juan Jacobo Vaz, also known as Dr. Blythenstein, was born in Mexico, where he studied graphic design and illustration. He discovered the international customizing doll scene in 2007, when he met the Blythe doll for the very first time. He suddenly fell in love with her because of her endless modification possibilities. Vaz's most distinctive characters are the "Yarn heads"—bears, cats, ducks, or dinosaurs—with huge colorful heads made of wool.

"Faux bois," the log girl, is another of his iconic characters, and her colors represent the seasons of the year and a connection with Mother Nature that allows him to use organic elements, such as rocks or dried mushrooms.

Mapuca

Marta Puente is Mapuca, a 3-D artist born in Santander and based in Madrid, Spain. Mapuca works in the fields of advertising and television. Some years ago she discovered the Blythe doll, and she suddenly felt a reawakening of her childhood passion for dolls. Since then, Mapuca's skills have grown in sewing, taking photographs, and customizing dolls. Inspired by everything, she tries to project on her art dolls a little part of who she is by bringing some sweetness to every doll character she creates.

Noel Cruz

Originally from Manila, Philippines, and based in the United States, Noel Cruz is one of the most versatile and distinguished repaint artists in the doll community.

Cruz is most recognized for his Hollywood movie and television-based dolls. Cruz uses factory dolls to make his iconic re-creations, transforming a generic molded doll into an amazing likeness of one of the world's greatest celebrities. His repaints are done with intricate detail to the point of being lifelike. All of his dolls, sold through eBay, now belong in the personal collections of their proud owners.

Roguedolls

Neus Perales, aka Picara, is Roguedolls, and she lives in Valencia, Spain. Picara has been customizing and making clothing for dolls since she can remember.

Her creations are a combination of classic and modern, sweet and dark, fairy tales and real life, and, as she says, they are a reflection of herself. She is inspired by haute couture, retro and futuristic aesthetics, Japanese culture, and creepy things. When she started customizing dolls there weren't any online shops or YouTube tutorials, so she became a self-taught artist—and that's what makes her dolls so unique. Her personal touch includes glossy realistic lips, facial piercings, and the artwork she designs specially for the eyelids.

Citron Rouge

Céline C. is Citron Rouge, a creative artist and web designer from Marseille, France, and, among other things, an icon in the doll community. Céline loves to customize ball-jointed dolls, although sometimes she works with Blythe and Pullip dolls. Her favorite subjects are mythologic creatures, the Asian erotic culture, dark and fantastic tales, and horror stories, which inspire her to create her amazing decadent universe. Céline, a multidisciplinary artist, also loves to draw, sculpt, sew, write, and take photographs.

Nymphaea Dolls

K6 lives and works in Angers, France, and she is the founder of Nymphaea Dolls. K6 works as a children's book illustrator, graphic designer and videographer. She has always been fascinated by dolls, and after testing with different materials, she finally decided to create her own ball-jointed doll mold called Nymphette, inspired by the mythological character of the nymph. After Nymphette's success she decided to create new characters: Fantasia and Capricia, two demonic creatures, and a strange cat called "Shafeuy." Each of these unique creatures is head to toe handmade.

Pam Dolls

Pam Dolls is Fuencisla Martín, a computer engineer from Madrid, Spain. She discovered the Blythe doll in 2008, and after that it was love at first sight, she was compelled to start customizing it. Martín dolls are cute, sweet, and colorful, but they can also be a little dark, vampiric, and punk. She loves to transform original dolls completely but keep their essence, treating them as if they were “little people.” Martín has participated in many doll exhibitions, such as the BlytheCon Europe 2013 celebrated in Barcelona.

238

Pam Dolls

G. Baby Dolls

Gina Soriano is a custom-doll artist and visual communications student based in the San Francisco Bay Area. She is better known throughout the doll scene as G.Baby. Soriano has created more than one hundred custom dolls that are recognizable for their adorable pouty lips and sassy expressive attitude. She takes great care in making sure that each doll she creates is truly one-of-a-kind and different from the previous. Soriano's dolls can be found in many different styles and colors, from cute to sexy, ghostly to glamorous, and everything in between.

Freddy Tan

Freddy Tan is an artist from Singapore, and he has been customizing all sorts of dolls for more than a decade—mainly Fashion, BJD, and Monster High—but now he has a crush on the Blythe doll. Tan says that the Blythe doll is the best to work with because its face is made out of hard plastic, which allows him to create endless facial expressions: sad, happy, worried, mischievous, and so on. Tan was a product designer in the past, but now he works full-time as a custom-doll artist at his home studio, where he's also able to take care of his aging parents.

Welcome to The Doll Scene, where you get exclusive access to some of the best custom-designed dolls created by some of the greatest artists in the world. Using original factory dolls as a canvas to create their own lovely and stunning characters, these incredible artists change everything from the original doll by exchanging body parts, sculpting faces, swapping out "eye chips" and hair colors, adding endless eyelashes, applying makeup, and carefully tailoring all its clothing and accessories. Some artists have even created their own dolls, sculpting and creating original molds.

Funny, sweet, libidinous, adorable, and sometimes sinister, these dolls have become objects of desire, as well as pop-culture icons for this century. With more than 300 full-color images, The Doll Scene is the perfect inspiration for doll collectors, designers, and fashionistas.
